Innovative solutions that simplify user experiences for entertainment and smart home control:

- o Nevo Butler: Features the versatile and award-winning, multi-assistant-enabled, entertainment and smart home hub, powered by QuickSet and nevo.ai, the first digital assistant optimized for home control applications.
- o UEI Comfort Smart Thermostats and Accessories: with intuitive interfaces and built-in sensing capabilities supported by QuickSet Cloud to interact with other devices and services in the home. Now with an expanded set of sensors and wireless adapters designed to extend the reach of this platform.
- o UEI Virtual Agent: Enhanced features offering digital support of UEI products and third-party entertainment and smart home devices for easy onboarding, feature discovery and customer support.

Sustainability solutions that help to minimize power consumption and significantly reduce battery waste:

- o UEI Extreme Low Power (XLP) Connectivity SOCs: The company's new connectivity solutions with integrated energy harvesting capabilities that deliver up to 2.5 times more computing power while consuming up to 80% less battery power compared to traditional Bluetooth Smart SOCs.
- o UEI HD Indoor Light Harvesting Panel: The unique High Density light harvesting panels which perform up to three times more efficiently than traditional photovoltaic solar cells.

- o UEI ETERNA remote controls: Next generation advanced controllers that can work without battery replacement, for up to the useful life of the product. Leveraging the new XLP connectivity SOC and HD Indoor light harvesting panels, these controllers support even the most power-hungry features such as voice, infrared control, and backlight without compromising battery life.

Visitors to the UEI booth will also experience UEI's broad product portfolio, including new advanced TV controllers for Android TV and RDK platforms; an expanded line-up of its IoT sensor portfolio by Ecolink, and new digital TV accessories by One For All. As well as its forward looking "Designovation" showcase, demonstrating new IoT sensor applications and offering a sneak preview of the next evolution in streaming entertainment control, "Remote 3.0."
